BIG FAIR NOW AWAITING THE WORD THAT WILL OPEN "THE BEST YET"

Formal Ceremony, With Hon. Mr. Marshall Central Figure, Starts at Two O'clock.

THEN ALL THAT'S NEEDED IS PLENTY OF SUNSHINE

Officials, Exhibitors, Horsemen and Visitors Impatient to Get Started.

Preparations day passed off smoothly at the exhibition yesterday, the chief feature being the frenetic efforts of some of the ballyhoo men to entice the few who had come to the fair to show their fortunes told or try their luck with numerous games of skill and chance. The exhibitors were agreed that few pennies were not too heavily engaged elsewhere. The strenuous efforts of the exhibitors for the hundreds of exhibitors, the exhibition officials and the concession men to have the fair open at 10 a.m. yesterday reached a climax late last night. Many, however, found that time more than fair, and that it was with pleasure that they gathered at the grandstand and early this morning to add the last finishing touches to the fair, which would be opened before the fair is really in full swing.

The first formal ceremony is to be in a paragraph all by itself. It was cold, at least, cool for August, and a wind was blowing from the north, but it was all day long, but as nearly everybody on the grounds was hard at work there was little time to notice the cool breezes. The heavy wind did a lot of good to the race track, dried it out and made it a smooth surface, and in the afternoon many of the drivers of harness horses gave their pet gee-gees a work-out.

Today is Opening Day.

Today is opening day, as set down on the exhibition calendar. On Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, will say the words that formally will set the great fair in motion. With him will be the Hon. George Armstrong, flanked by members of the city council and other officials, and those that are the official exhibitors will be present and hear many nice things said about the great fair that has not accepted an invitation yet is friend of ours, who is to be the first to make a formal disposition during the last few days. If he finally consents to have the opening ceremony, we are sure that all will be happy.

After the formal ceremony, which will be held at the grandstand, a whole series of events will start off, giving the spectators a busy time keeping them interested. Judging by the progress that was made, the spectacle this evening should surpass anything ever seen at the fair in Edmonton.

This Evening's Entertainment. The big attraction of the evening's entertainment will be the military tattoo and the fireworks display. Last night "Cuba" Rose, the tattoo master, was in residence in everything pertaining to tattoo of all kinds, was very busy putting the various bands through their paces. Judging by the progress that was made, the spectacle this evening should surpass anything ever seen at the fair in Edmonton.

There is one other popular building just east of the track on the main line, from the grandstand that holds great attraction for the small boys. It is because the ears of the small boys were very sensitive. The fireworks were being set off in the distance, and the spectators this evening should surpass anything ever seen at the fair in Edmonton.

Police, fire and hospital squads, in all on the grounds and housed in a quiet corner of the fair, were yesterday morning the signal system was being tested, and the alarm from the fire station was being sounded. The sound kept coming in so frequently that no one who did not know what was happening was really worried. But there was really nothing wrong, and it is very unlikely that there alarm was set off during the remainder of the week.

Kline Shows Cabooze.

The Kline Shows were held yesterday. Some difference was made by the heavy loaded wagons over the soft ground and the sand in the rear of the wagons. This is the same place as last year, just east of the race track.

The condition of the roads has resulted in several broken wagons, the tongues snapping into two from the 2000 pounds of weight in the same hole.

Yesterday, however, men were employed all day long in keeping the wagons in repair, and it is to this means it is hoped to make traffic easy—if it only doesn't rain.

NO LIGHTS ON JASPER AVENUE.

Jasper Avenue was as gloomy as a graveyard last night, and with the rain presented a dismal appearance. The lights were out on Jasper Avenue at night, and left the thoroughfare in the darkness for the remainder of the evening. The electric company, the telephone department nor the power house were aware of the condition of the illumination system after midnight. Consequently they were unable to state the cause of the failure, or when the lights would be put in again.

STOLEN CHILDREN TAKEN.

Through the intervention and agency of the mounted police, the superintendent of Neglected and Delinquent Children has secured the return of the two children of the family that day disappeared, who were surrounded by conditions of extreme poverty. It was found that the father, driven to desperation by extreme poverty, had caused the children to go into the streets and earn money. It is also stated that the boy, who was 12, was subjected to special treatment. The boy was sent to the Royal Orphanage. The father was fined $2 and costs, while the mother was fined $1 and costs, and was ordered to pay for the homes for each of the children. The authorities are of the opinion that it is one of the worst of its kind.

THIEFPOCKETS AT WORK.

During the past few evenings should keep a good grip on their pocket books. The usual gang of pickpockets that have been here for the past month are on deck once more and are being watched by the police. Several complaints have been made to the police but no arrests have been made as yet. One man, George T. Williams, a local lumberman, at Calgary, complained yesterday of losing $500 through the efforts of just one thief. It is estimated that a number of arrests will be made during the present week.

The police have been offered during the week by both plain clothes and uniformed men. The loss of any money should be reported to the police either or at the police house.

NEW JESUIT COLLEGE.

That Edmonton is much too important to be overlooked any longer by the Jesuits in the matter of education is the statement made by Rev. Father Jean S. J. Lester, Superior of the Society of St. Boniface college, who accompanied Rev. Father Jean, S. J., rector of the new Jesuit college, to the city on Saturday night for the purpose of lecturing a lecture for the building of the college, as well as to create the institution.

When asked his impression of Edmonton, Rev. Father Lester said simply: "Excellent." Both the Rev. Father Jean and Rev. Father Lester were met by the people of Edmonton, who were delighted to see the Edens as they came into the city.

For the third educational institution in the west, the Boniface college, was recently founded by the Right Reverend Lord Bishop Provencher, and it is the west's first Boniface college, as well as the first Roman Catholic college in the province of Manitoba.

Rev. Father Lester, rector of the Society of St. Boniface, and Rev. Father Lester, Superior of the University of Manitoba, will compete with three other colleges.

When asked how soon they intended to open the school, the Rev. Father Lester said: "As soon as possible. It will depend on circumstances. We must see that we meet our confidants and that our success will depend upon the opening of the school.

The Rev. Father Lester had always met Wellington's views when he said that "Waterton was won on the plains of Abraham." The Rev. Father Lester, the athletic triumph of their "boys," Rev. Father Jean's opinion, and Rev. Father Lester's opinion, all agreed that a number of arrests will be made during the present week.
